Commitment to Privacy

At Dayton Chest Medicine, we are committed to the health of our patients. Vital to that commitment is a friendly, low-key atmosphere that emphasizes your importance to us. Regardless of race, religion, creed or educational back-ground, you and your medical records will be treated with respect and dignity.

Except when disclosure is required by law or court order, we only share your medical information with other physicians involved in your care and with the insurance company paying your bill. Even in these situations, we are careful to include only the necessary information and nothing more. All other sharing of your medical information is only done upon direct request from you.
